THE CINCINNATI REGION WHERE BUSINESS SUCCESS HAPPENS

The Cincinnati region is uniquely positioned to support expanding businesses through a vibrant entrepreneurial ecosystem and partnerships with well-regarded medical institutions.

The region's life sciences industry offers untapped resources to new and growing companies. From research and production to clinical trials, the region has assets to catalyze life sciences growth and help companies reach their full potential.

Here, our deep talent pool, extensive research infrastructure and robust public/private research community support major life sciences companies, research universities and medical institutions as they forge the future of health.

"As we continue to expand our footprint in the Tri-state, on both sides of the river, we hope to become a model for other companies. Our region is incredibly rich in talent—capable, educated professionals who save lives every day—skills we saw proven time and again throughout the fight against COVID-19. We hope our continued success here encourages others to consider bringing jobs to the region."
